LACNIC Policy Development Process - Updated

1. Consensus must now be reached both on the policy list as well as at the forum.
2. Forum chairs will have two weeks to decide whether a proposal has reached consensus and notify the community.
3. A definition of last call for comments has been added.

4. The title of Public Policy Forum chairs is now Policy Development Process chairs. The chairs' responsibility now extends to the entire PDP.
5. An appeals process has been added.
6. The Member Assembly has been eliminated from the PDP (see no.5).
7. The new PDP comprises the following stages:

Initial discussion * [Policy list + forum]	Chairs decide on consensus	Last call for comments	Chairs decide on consensus	Ratification by the Board	Implementation
8 weeks	2 weeks	4 weeks	1 week

If consensus is not reached, or if the board does not ratify the proposal
It would either be sent back to the discussion list or abandoned

* At least 8 weeks and at most the time required for the proposal to be presented at the PPF.
  This period would be restarted if a new version is submitted.
